Her statement tickled the palate of Mr. Hawkins.

"Victoria is the most beautiful city in Canada," he said. "It is only fifting that it should become the home for one of the most beautiful actroses in the world."

Hawkins' invitation followed similar offers by Toronto and Vancouver cause their two-year-old son, Milko

LONDON (CP) — Gina Lollobrigida's decision to emigrate to Canada was the biggest news to hit London newspapers since Princess Margaret became engaged.

Admitting he has some trouble with her name but not with her face, "We have had moments of great en-joyment watching her. I am certain she would have years of enjoyment as a Victorian."

Currently Toronto seems to have the inside track as the new home for the Skofic family. Skofic's brother is Toronto manager of American Export Lines Shipping Co., and he is sponsoring the immigrants for their entry into Canada.

In Rome, Dr. Skofic said the family will take up residence in Toronto by May.

Yugoslavia-born, Dr. Skofic is also stateless. When Italian officials declined to give the couple's son Miss Lollobrigida's nationality, they decided to seek a country which would.

U.S. Copter Saves Soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Russian soldiers adrift for 49 days in a small landing craft have been rescued in mid-Pacific by a U.S. Navy carrier.

The defence department announced today the carrier Kearsarge picked the men up about 9 p.m. Sunday about 1,000 miles westnorthwest of Midway Island.

Weak and emaciated, the Russians were in a 50-foot landing craft, similar to the U.S. Navy's LCM.

The Russians reported their craft was crippled and swept southward by a severe storm the night of Jan. 17 off Etorofu-To Island in the Kuriles, but north of the January of just north of the Japanese island of Fiokkaldo.

Seventh Consecutive Failure

ONE OF THE MOST REMARK-able -utterances in the record of Canadian Government came last weekend from our esteemed fellow townsman and minister of national fence, Mr. Pearkes.

The failure of the Bomarc missile in its seventh successive test, said Mr. Pearkes, would have no effect on his defence plans.

Those plans are based primarily the installation of two Bomarc launching sites in Quebec and On-tario. They depend absolutely on the Bomarc missile. And the Bo-marc missile, tested by the United States unsuccessfully six times, exploded on the seventh test.

Yet Mr. Pearkes tells us that he is going right ahead with his plan to use the Bomarc though it has not worked satisfactorily for the United States, which designed and built it.

The failure of the Bomarc may have no effect on Mr. Pearkes but it will have deep effects on the Gov-ernment and Congress of the United

Even before the latest fiasco the Congress was looking askance at the Bomarc and threatening to cut down or eliminate appropriations for its manufacture, in favor of another and more satisfactory

Now, we may be sure, the pressure to abandon the Bomarc altogether will increase in the Congress and probably in the administration

Certainly the United States has no intention of relying exclusively on the Bomarc, as Mr. Pearkes apparently intends to rely on it, whether it works or not.

If the United States abandons the Bomarc all Mr. Pearkes' plans are cancelled. For it is only from the United States that we can obtain this weapon.

Moreover, the United States is making a large contribution to the

The Board of Transport Commissioners, which granted the re-who had criticized the company for not maintaining an adequate con-tingency reserve. The rates were raised to provide the necessary cost of Canada's Bomarc project. If it writes off the Bomarc at home, the United States will hardly spend money to introduce this weapon into Canada.

Canada.

It is plain nonsense, therefore, to say that the latest Bomarc failure can have no effect on our defence plans. If Mr. Pearkes could assure us that the launching pads, when finally completed, can be used for some other, better missile, that would make sense. Otherwise, why should Parliament vote money for this costly project before it knows whether the Bomarc is going to be available at all?

Mr. Diefenbaker has tried to make sure, by confining the new defence committee's investigation to past expenditures, that it will not expenditures, or any aspect of government defence policy.

This restriction, however, does not apply to the House of Commons. Parliament, we assume, is still entitled to debate Government policy and the expenditure of public money even under Mr. Diefenbaker's majority.

It is for Parliament to make certain that we are not embarking on a wild goose chase, investing our money in the wrong weapon and pursuing Mr. Pearkes' plans blindly after they have been discredited. And Parliament should remember also that even if the Bomarc is finally made to work it can only attack manned aircraft but cannot touch guided missiles, the weapon that Russia would be likely to use in any inter-continental war. It is for Parliament to make cerin any inter-continental war.

Mr. Pearkes must not be blamed for the Bomarc failure. He had nothing to do with it. He cannot be blamed for the sudden obsolesence of any weapon. But he can be blamed if, quite unnecessarily, he commits the nation to another Arrow disaster and meanwhile pretends that the Bomarc's seventh

THE POPULAR WAY-STATION

Fado Emerges Richly Steeped in Saudade

I ISBON-Less than 10 years ago, Canadians were largely unknown in this country. Last year, thanks largely to the direct air connec-tion between Montreal and this capital, 4,401 persons from our from our visited Liscountry visited Lis-bon. Of this number, 3,106 came in by air, 167 by sea and the rest overland from France, Spain and other European countries. Now that Lis-Keate bon has been estab-ed as a way-station on the Canadian Pacific flight-path to Rome, it is likely that this traffic will be greatly increased; particularly since stopovers and "pick-ups" are permitted in the service "pick-ups" are permitted in the service which had its formal opening from Montreal, March 4.

And, purely as a personal guess, it seems possible that the "way-station" may outdo the terminal point in popularity with tourists.

Lisbon has not been spoiled. Experienced travellers say that it has the best service in Europe. Its people are friendly, with no anti-North American

In preparation for an expanding tourist business, Lisbon has built seven new hotels in the past three years, and at rates which will not embarrass most Canadian pocketbooks. The most luxurious, the Ritz, is a showplace of marble and glass, and was opened just four months ago. Its rates are comparable to those in leading hotels of Montreal, Toronto or New York.

Other quality hotels in the capital, like the Tivoli or the Mundial, may be had for about $10 a day (double), with breakfast. In the country, the govern-ment has built a string of rest-house hotels called pousadas, especially for foreign traffic, which are both attractive and cheap.

As sung by Alfredo Duarte Jr., heir to a great tradition of family fado performers, the folk-songs emerged richly steeped in "saudade," which is said to be the most beautiful word in the Por-tuguese vocabulary. It connotes a sad longing, nostalgia, and the evocation of haunting sagas of the sea.

A wild, careening moonlight ride through the streets of Lisbon, at a speed of 80 kilos, could not erase the picture of Signor Duarte, tugging at his little scarf and swinging his body to the rhythms of guitar and mandolin in the style they call "Gingao."

Then, a few feet from my door, a tiny Volkswagon drew up and a poor man, ill-dressed and aged like myself, invited me to ride with him. I waved someone in Ottawa and a call to Detroit from Winnipeg can cost a dollar less than one to Windsor. And despite exhortations to call in off-hours or on Sundaya the advantage of doing so becomes progressively less. No single explanation will cover these discrepancies or the various others which might be cited. Some of them, however, are clearly the result of divided jurisdiction. Long distance calls are of three types, provincial interprovincial and international. The rate on a call from Winnipeg to Brandon is set independently by the Manitoba Telephone System. On the other hand a message which crosses an interprovincial or international border may, or may not, come within the jurisdiction of the Board of Transport Commissioners. It all depends on the nature of the charter granted to the particular telephone company. Most charters come from provincial legislatures. (The result is that the Board has no jurisdiction over a call from Winnipeg to Regina.) By STUART KEATE Two Exceptions

There are, however, two exceptions; the Bell Telephone Company, operating in Ontario and Quebec, and the British Columbia Telephone Company. These have federal charters and to the extent have federal charters and to the extent that either participates in a long distance telephone rate, it is subject under the Railway Act to the jurisdiction of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

For example, a call from Winnipeg to Toronto is subject to a rate over which the Board has at least partial authority. The same may be said of calls from Ottawa to Washington.

But a call from Winnipeg to the U.S. capital would go through the Regina switching station (there are only three switching areas in the country centring on Vancouver, Regina and Montreal); it would thus pass over lines ander provincial or American jurisdiction and the rate would not be the responsibility of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Transport Commissioners.
The procedure of establishing long distance telephone rates is the reverse of that followed in the case of freight

If the railways wish to increase rates, they must apply to the Board which then arranges for hearings and in the light of these makes a ruling granting, desying or perhaps amending the raily desying or perhaps amending the railway proposal.

Long distance telephone rates are the products, in the first instance, of negotiations and agreements among the private companies and public authorities participating in the Trans-Canada Telephone System.

Board May Intervene

Rates so arrived at are then submit-ted to the Board of Transport Com-missioners. No positive action is re-quired to make them effective. But the Board may intervene either of its own motion or in consequence of complaints submitted to it.

Intervention does not, however, take the form familiar in freight rates disputes. The Board does not set rates. What it may do is to require the companies under its jurisdiction (Bell and the B.C. Telephone Company) to withdraw from participation in an agreed

In that event the through rate m Winnipeg to Toronto, ceases to be effective and the charge becomes the sum of two tolls; that charged by the Manitoba Telephone System from Winnipeg to the Ontario border and that charged by Bell from the border to

Such a situation would lead, normally, to a renegotiation of rates and the Board, for its part, may require this procedure. Changes in the Trans-Canada scale seldom precipitate battles before the Board. For one thing the various companies and provincial authorities are in prior agreement. For another, horizon-tal increases are rarely, if ever, at issue.

Companies are directed not to schedules but to specific inequities.

Rate Overhaul

long-distance calls.

The last rate overhaul became effective on June 1, 1959. According to an official of the Board, it had several one was to increase the spread between person-to-person and station-to-station calls; and the latter are favored because they are better adapted to the new processes of automation. Another was to flatten out the scales, especially on person-to-person calls; the rates for short distances were increased substantially, those for long distances

A third objective was to reduce the incentive for off-hour calls; a substantial spread-out has been achieved and it is considered unnecessary now to dangle quite so many carrots before rooted in day-time and week-day habits.
Of course the practical result may have been, and in the case of the Manitoba Telephone System obviously was, greatly to increase the revenues from

However a call is routed, the rate is based-theoretically-on distance as the crow flies. But it makes a difference relatively low when density of traffic is high and vice versa. This explains why a call from Winnipes to Terosto may involve a lesser charge than a call from Winnipeg to a midway point.

Why has the vastly increased volume of calls not brought about a general reduction in long distance tolls?

Way back in the days of my youth, the police raided a Chinese gambling house. At the time some outspoken and independent spirits argued that the police always raided Chinese gambling houses when the city needed a little more revenue—which was doubtful.

This time, however, they dragged in not only the operators but dozens of players.
W. C. "Bill" Moresby, QC, appeared for them in police court. They all pleaded guilty, were convicted and fines stipulated for them. In default they were to spend time in jail. All decided to skip the fine and serve time. The city went into a flap. It faced the prospect of serving all those meals to all those prisoners—and not much prospect of having the prisoners work out the costs, since the

Now it seems to me that every person who buys a ticket on an illegal fishing derby is just as culpable as the promoters of the derby or the individuals who sell tickets. Suppose a few thousand bought tickets on such an event. Suppose, if it were declared illegal, that the purchasers rushed to the police and provided evidence of their guilt. Suppose they demanded to be convicted and put in the pokey. Suppose they thought Bill Moresby had a point in the device he rigged against the city. People who are desperate on account of a child with severe asthma might well find great help in the Jewish National Home for Asthmatic Children (3447 W. 19th Avenue, Denver 4, Color-ado). This fine hospital and research institute accepts for treatment children of all faiths. These severely asthmatic children always have some deformity of the chest; some have emphsysema (in which the little lung cells are dilated or rup-tured one into the other); some are highly allergic; Alvarez some are neurotic; and most are undersized and underweight.

It is a remarkable and significant fact that, often, the day the child arrives in the hospital, he stops wheezing. There can be several reasons for this, but often the main one is that the child came from a home in which the parents had become so anxious and nervous and fussy over their sick child that their anxiety reacted back onto him. Perhaps they upset him badly by keeping him always under a microscope.

As one would expect, in some of these cases, after six months of good health in the hospital, when the mother comes to visit the child or to take him home, he starts wheezing again, with a flare-up of his asthma. And yet, the experts in this hospital feel that asthma is not primarily a psychic disease; it is only made worse by mental strain. Primarily there is an in-herited precisposition to spasm in the tubes that lead air into the lungs. Usually, also there is an inherited hypersensitiveness to dusts and pollens and molds of various nds. Many children get a bad attack of heezing whenever they get a cold. Hence common in men than in women and it is found usually in heavy smokers. One reason why so many men with cancer of the lung are found to have a tumor too big to get out surgically is that, for a long time, they, assumed that their morning cough due purely to cigaret smoking. Doubtless, to start with, it was a cigaret cough. The mistake the man made was in not realizing that a cancer can grow for perhaps a year without making the cough much worse. Because of this fact, every heavy smoker with a cigaret cough ought to have his lungs X-rayed at least twice a year. Every so often now I see a man with a bad cigaret cough who listened to his wife and went to get his lunge X-rayed, only when his cough had gotten more than usually bothersome, or when one day he had brought up a little blood, or when, one day, he had gotten to wheezing. Then a good-sized tumor was found, and it was too late to get it all out.

Many people who have had a child with club feet have wondered if the disease could be inherited. In some cases the family remember that an uncle or someone had had club feet. Often, when there is a little doubt about the inheritance of a disease all one has to do is to turn to the breeders animals and they will tell us all we need to know.

Nixon: A Portrait

THOMAS E. DEWEY

Richard Nixon had been in politics only six years. Just a week before his arrival in Los Angeles on Sept. 22, 1952, he was at a peak of his phenomenal careerand still headed upward. And now he faced as severe a test as anyone could cope with.

It was not just that his integrity was challenged; it was the possible consequences generally. If he got off the ticket, would have been the first time in the history of our country such a thing happened; by the same token, if the Republicans lost, he would be the scapegoat.

The senator exiled himself in the Ambassador Hotel to await the climax of "the worst experience of my life." Mrs. Nixon went to the home of Mrs. Helene Drown, a friend. who had been her compani on the campaign train.

lawyers and accountants hired by Paul Hoffman sent their 18-page, single-spaced reports to Sherman Adams. The study was based on Dana Smith's file, and, in effect, found everything to be legal and in line with what Smith had made public a few days before, except for about $11.00. Thomas £. Dewey telephoned Ine with what Smith had made public a few days be fore, except for about $11,000 feposited in the fund account after Nixon's nomination, and Smith said it would be accounted for as campaign contributions.

Eisenhower was campaigning in Ohio on Tuesday, Sept. His telegrams and messages were running three to against Nixon. All day the general repeated to callers that he would not make up his mind until after the broadcast.

The running mates rode together at the head of a large caravan to the Wheeling Stadium, where Eisenhower declared that Nixon had "completely vindicated himself."
Nixon said, "This is probably the greatest moment of my life."

Peace Restored

The next day—exactly one week after the uproar—all was peaceful, happy and harmonious in Republican ranks.
"The Order of the Hound's Tooth" was founded, with Nixon as president and all in entourage during the d' week as charter members. The membership card, designed by the candidate, fea-tured a portrait of Checkers. Newspaper support swung back heavily in Nixon's favor. "The air is cleared," said the Herald Tribune. The New York Journal American cailed the speech "an eloquent and manly explanation." The Denver Post said, "Senator Nixon talked his way into the hearts of millions . . . by speaking plainly and honestly about the dilemma of a poor man and the rich sweepstakes of politics." 'Variety' Critical

The favorable reaction was hardly unanimous. Variety, the newspaper of show business, considered the telecast "a slick production . . . parlaying all the schmaltz and human inter-est of the 'Just Plain Bill'

No Time to Prepare

Normally, Nixon would work a full week, at least, on a major speech. There was less than two days for him to prepare the most important one of his life. He started on the airplane flight from Portland to Los Angeles.

"I was pretty tired by that time," he recalls, "I tried to sleep, but after dozing a little while I woke up. I began to think about the broadcast, what could I say—how could I jut this thing in a way people.

The program opened with a picture of Senator Nixon's calling card. Then the camera was with all the magnification of modern electronics, simply mob law ... the appeal to the people should have come after, not before, the case had been judged by Eisenhower."

In retrospect, the affair was bad for Nixon. The people who remember it most vividly thought it was horrible. The Democrats and Nixon's Republican enemies have kept the embers aglow. Much of the "I don't like Nixon, but don't know why" talk stems from the incident. But if it weren't for the immediate impact of that speech, Nixon probably would sheet vicing and the camera was with all the magnification of modern electronics, simply mob law ... the appeal to the people should have come after, not before, the case had been judged by Eisenhower."

STEEPLECHASE CLASSIC SLATED FOR TELEVISION

LONDON (AP) — An estimated 50,000,000 ple will watch this year's running of the Grand National steeplechase one of the world's most gruelling horse races, on television screens dotted live for the first time in its 123-year history-and it's going to be pumped into European homes over 'Eurovision' system.

Viewers in Britain, Denmark, Austria, Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden and The Netherlands will see the chase over 30 obstacles and a course of four miles, 856 yards

Peter Dimmock, head of the British Broad-casting Corporation's outside broadcasts, told newsmen Monday that the race was almost certain to be seen on Canadian television screens the morning after the running.

success may not be the American Football League or the Continental League, which is planned as baseball's third major circuit.

Those two are getting all the publicity, but the one that could make the most money in the next few years is a league for professional bowlers.

Across the United States, the pin people are planning a flock of small bowling stadiums, with seating capacities ranging from 2,000 to 5,000. They're almost assured of national television contracts, sponsorships and subsidies that will virtually guarantee success of the new league.

People like to bowl and they like to watch experts like Don Carter, Ed Lubanski and Frank Clause maul the maples on TV screens. But the first question of doubters is: "Will they pay money to watch the other guy bowl?"

In the American Bowling Congress last year, with seats for 3,500 fans, large crowds were turned away. Sponsors of the tournament estimated they would have packed in crowds of up to 10,000 if they had that many seats available.

Draft of Country's Bowling Talent

Indicating that the circuit is well beyond the talking stage is a story coming our way from Houston, Texas, where the Fred Magees, senior and junior, will run the local fran-the Fred Magees, senior and jumot, will run the school chise.

"We'll build a 16-lane house," says Fred Magee, Jr., a top-notch bowler himself, "with 3.500 seats for spectators. When the team is on the road, or after the season, the stadium will be open for public bowling."

Curtis Sanford, originator of the Cotton Bowl football classic, is one of the men who conceived the new league and he'll own the Dallas franchise. He, too, is building his own he'll own the Dallas franchise. He, too, is building his own

"We'll sit down and have a draft of bowling talent in the country-just like pro football picks its players," said Sanford. "All the teams will be strong."

It is proposed the league will have a commissioner and a league office for national publicity. And the overhead for operation-with only five players plus one or two substitutes will be small when compared to pro baseball, football or even basketball:

"With these new stadiums built around the country," says Sanford, "it isn't difficult to visualize national and sec onal competition among the nation's colleges."

That way, they'd have a built in farm system and if they sed a bit of money to get the pin show on the road, Texas is just the place to get it. When Arnie Schmautz arrived back in Victoria a few days ago, there was one thing he wanted to do before heading home to relax. The peppery little Cougar winger went looking for someone to do him a favor.

"Would you," Arnie asked, "please pass on my thanks to all the hockey tans and friends who sent messages and telegrams to me?"

Those messages, he says, gave him a "tremendous lift" while convalescing from an operation that followed the skull fracture he received in a Western Hockey League game at Winnings on Feb. 16

Winnipeg on Feb. 16.
"I'd also like to publicly thank the hockey club for flying my wife out to Winnipeg. The team certainly went out of its way to make sure I had the best of everything."

Although the tiny tiger, a New Westminster resident, is out of action for the rest of the season, he plans to stay in Victoria until the Cougars have completed their campaign. "I'll be with them when they go right through the playoffs,"

The Cats could hand Arnie another "get well" present by whipping Seattle Totems at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. Cougars play three of their remaining six league games against Seattle and Totems are the club they'll have to catch to wind up in second place. Trailing Guyle Fielder and company by seven points, there's no room for error and the Cats have to win Wednesday to keep the runner-up spot

Pensioners F To See Cabine

A group of representatives of pensioner associations returned to Vancouver Monday night after a fruitless attempt to meet cabinet ministers in hope of reducing costs of dentures.

They were told by Welfare Minister Black's office that the minister would be unable to see them. They gathered the situation was related to the cabinet attendance in the afternoon at the P. A. Gibbs funeral. But they tried to meet the ministers in the morning, they said.

Piper Park May Be Sold

NANAIMO—There is a possibility Piper Park, in the heart of Nanaimo and a favorite centre for elderly persons, may become a commercial site.

Ron Holmes, civic properties and recreation commission secretary, said the area never was dedicated as a park by city council.

A local firm made a bid on the property some years ago but was turned down. There has been no recent demand for the property.

But Mayor Pete Maffeo said "perhaps the property will be required when the new fishermen's floats are installed."

Bigger Fines for Water Pollution?

NANAIMO—Fines for persons polluting the water-ways of B.C. should be increased. The Campbell River Fish and Game Club took this stand at a meeting here.

Delegates said the U.S. had put "plenty of teeth in their laws" and that was what was needed here.

"Fines should be comparative to the damage."

Years Less Day on Liquor Theft

PORT ALBERNI - Richard Rowlinson, 22, was sentenced Monday in court here to two years less a day in Oakalla when he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering. He entered the armory Feb. 7 and stole $250 worth of liquor and $250 in cash. A companion, Daniel Jones, was sentenced to one year.

Inquest Adjourned in Plane Crash

Monday viewed the bodies of two men killed Sunday when their light plane crashed near here, then adjourned indefinitely.

The bodies of Richard J. Clark and Lloyd Roger Gore, both of Vancouver, were released for burial.

Coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said "at some later date" it may be decided an inquest need not be held.

SECURITY ACT CHANGES

Curbs Facing Stock Selling By Telephone

The provincial govern-ment is tightening the Se-curities Act to put the brakes on stock selling by telephone.

A government bill now before the legislature would make it illegal for stock salesmen to use the telephone within or outside the province "for the purpose of trading in any security with any members of the public."

Excluded from the provision or ould be close personal friends of salesmen, business associates or customers with whom they were doing business or any person who had requested information.

The measure carries an explanatory note which says it is intended to clarify the meaning of the legislation "so that the prohibition against the illegal communications by telephone may be more effective.

There are two types of cages available. One pagoda shape in black wrought iron has three perches, a swing and large plastic feed dishes. Complete with bird, it sells for $3.50. Other type is in/sturdy chrome and sells for $9.

Normal price of birds is $7.95 so you can see there is a real saving to be had here!

Birds range in color from classic vellou to selde.

Birds range in color from classic yellow to golden orange tones and all are guaranteed as good song birds.

All birds—whether they're pets or the wild species—love millet. Real economy packages sell at 15 cents and 29 cents. Some of my neighbors tell me that wild birds are scarce this year. If you miss your tiny feathered callers try hanging some millet outside your windows or in trees near the house. This will surely attract them!

Parr Gets Blue Pencil Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Paar made a triumphal return to his NBC television show Monday night, and within an hour the tart-fongued comedian had talked himself into censorship again.

into censorshin again.

On Fro. 1) Fact watked off the show after the network had cut out a taped broadcast a joke attempt which NBC said was in bad taste. Shortly thereafter, Paar and NBC officials made peace.

Monday night two NBC vice-presidents were on hand, and conferred with Paar immediately after the show was taped. An hour later the petwert are taped. An hour later the network an-hounced that Paar had "agreed to the omission of a brief personal reference."

When the tape was broadcast it was evident shortly after midnight that the brief personal reference was a 10-word reference to columnist Walter Winchell made during a vitriolic attack by Paar on the press, and the Hearst newspapers in particular

Paar, who returned last week from a trip to the Orient, said as he warmed up:
"Walter Winchell, this silly old manwho under oath could not admit, under oath, that he writes his own columns completely (sometimes days go by and he doesn't write them)—has never said a word about me in a year and a half when I was here to defend myself.

"As soon as I left and he thought I was not returning, he started all kinds of

"I have found that behind every commercial censor, every commercial moralist, there is a lecherous mind."

In Hollywood, Winchell said in reply:

"The other day Paar told the New York press that I'm a senile old man. Now he says I'm a lecher. How could I be both?"

Asked about Paar's comment concerning the writing of his columns, Winchell said: We all get a lot of contributions... a lot of help from press agents and

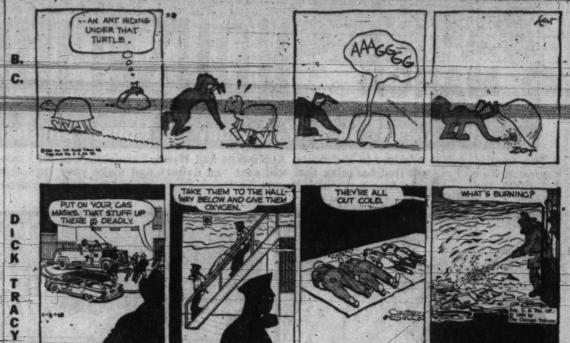

"Paar has said that morally, Winchell has no right to comment. As for my morals, I know I'm not as virginal as Paar is. But is anybody?"

Things at Paar's studio Monday night started out pleasantly if emotionally, as hundreds of fans turned up at NBC to welcome back their hero.

Paar segmed touched and pleased and boat was sighted by a lookout in fading twilight. As the car-rier approached the boat, the four occupants, wearing green uniforms with red stars on their caps, were huddled on the raised afterdeck. The welldeck was flooded with from two to three best of water

The soldiers were picked up by rescue gear in a helicopter and taken to the Kearsarge. The Russians had no means

At the time of their rescue the soldiers had no food or water left, a navy report said. Although weak and exhausted, their spirits were apparently revived by the rescue. All were able to walk when they were brought to the Kearsarge.

The dispatch did not explain what the landing craft was doing when it went adrift. However, U.S. military men believe this area is used by Russian forces for amphibious training
